

*In the year to come, dear Friends and Family,
I wish for you all...*

True Prosperity

For work...

An occupation you enjoy, which inspires (and pays the bills)

For health...

For all necessity to be met in any physical ills

For friendship...

That you may be understood and all loneliness kept at bay

For protection...

That the providential Hand of God turn all harm away

For spiritual growth...

That wisdom, knowledge, faith, and joy would thrive

For harmony...

That your relationships satisfy and never make you strive

For fortitude...

To overcome any habits for which you feel contempt

For success...

In any venture, craft, or project you think you should attempt

For godliness...

The kind of righteousness that turns contentment into gain

For resilience...

Because into every life there falls a little rain

For peace within yourself...

To really know how much God loves you

And hope...

That whatever befalls,

You have an eternal home waiting above you!

Merry Christmas and a Prosperous New Year to YOU!
